

Contents

- 3 From the Editor
Learning to Read

learning to read

- John Guillory 8 On the Presumption of Knowing How to Read
Karen Balliett 12 Learning How to Read: The Year of Magical Reading
Peggy Kaye 17 The Good English Teacher
Diane Krumrey 21 Down the Rabbit Hole of Textuality: Using Aporia to Teach Literature
Connie A. Jacobs 25 Mending the Broken Circle: The Power of Literature to Heal
Racial Strife
Thomas Lawrence Long 33 Rescuing Reading: The Community College, General Education, and Literary Reading across Curricula

on and off the tenure track

- Mary Webb and 37 The Last True Optimists: Three Decades of Lectureships at the Kathleen A. Boardman University of Nevada, Reno Susan Kress 46 Unintended Consequences: The MLA Task Force on Evaluating Scholarship
Valerie Lee and 51 Our Capacious Caper: Exposing Print-Culture Bias in Departmental Cynthia L. Selfe Tenure Documents

practica and data

- Paula Krebs 59 Diversifying the English Profession: The Summer Institute for Literary and Cultural Studies
Michael Ferber 62 Why Should Graduate Students in English Literature Know Foreign Languages?
Robert Crossley 66 The First Four Minutes of the MLA Interview
Diane M. Borden 68 Six Syndromes in Search of a Search Committee
Doug Steward 73 Report on the Survey of Earned Doctorates, 2006